NUMB. 3117

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1744

Stockholm, February 11.

THE King has spent some Days in hunting the Bear, and is, at present, in as good a State of Health as can be desired; his Majesty still proposes to visit Germany in the Month of April, or May, at further Notice. The Count de Ferlen set out lately for Berlin, in order to execute a Commission, which is said to be of the last Importance; and which, we imagine, relates to the Treaty of Marriage on Foot between his Royal Swedish Highness and his Prussian Majesty's Sister. The Russian Troops are to return home as soon as the Weather is a little open; after which, there is some Dispute as to whether it would be better, in order to put the Affairs of the Kingdom into such a Train, as that we may be speedily able to recover the Expences to which we were put by the late Confusions.

Copenhagen, February 15. Baron Solenthal, his Majesty's Minister to the Court of London, set out for that City on the 6th. Baron Windt, who is appointed to go with the same Character to the Court of Sweden, has also received Orders to set out immediately. Count Teflin will remain here till he is replaced by some other Minister from his Court. Notwithstanding our Differences with Sweden are entirely adjusted, a Squadron of Men of War are to be fitted out towards the End of this Month; and the new Ships that are building will be launched as soon as the Sea shall be open.

Lisbon, February 18. According to our last Advices from the Spanish Army, the Infant Don Philip is set out from Chambery for Lyons, where, it is believed, he arrived Yesterday, and where he will be received with all the Honours due to a Crown'd Head. It is doubtful how long he will remain in that City; but, in all Probability, he will not stir, till his Presence is necessary in the Army; and when that will be, is a Point we cannot determine. The Spanish Horse have begun to follow their Foot, and the Whole of their Army will arrive in Dauphine by the Close of this Month. The Partizans of Spain seem secure of Victory, but we who know the Strength of the Country thro' which they are to penetrate, are of quite another Opinion. The King of Sardina has all the Advantages a Prince can wish, and is himself a Prince of a Temper and Capacity fit to improve every Advantage to the utmost. He has 16,000 Regular Troops in the County of Nice, of which 6000 are employed in fortifying the Banks of the Varr, where his Redoubts are already mounted with 60 Pieces of heavy Cannon; and it is proposed to add 40 more by this Time they are finished. He will receive also great Assistance from the English Frigates, left by Admiral Mathews upon the Coasts; so that if the French and Spaniards should be able, with much ado, to force these Ports, it must be with a prodigious Effusion of Blood; especially as the King is resolved to command in Person, and his Subjects are known to be as well affected to his Service as it is possible for them to be. The Cities of Nice and Villafranca are extremely well fortified, well furnished with Provisions and Ammunition, and have numerous Garisons. On the whole we conclude, that if France be really in earnest in this Design, it will serve only to ruin her Armies, as effectually as those of Spain have been destroyed since the Invasion of Savoy; by which, according to a moderate Computation, they have lost 40,000 Men. Some Letters from Toulon say, that the French and Spanish Officers cannot agree. The former believe themselves sacrificed in a Quarrel in which they have little or no Concern; and the latter believe they might have carried their Point long ago, if they had been heartily assisted by their Allies. M. de Court, after taking a View of the English Navy, wrote a Letter to the Ministry at Versailles, to dissuade them from persisting in their Resolution to cause them to be attacked at all Events, and particularly urged the Condition the Spanish Squadron were in; which having the Van, their being soon best, must naturally dispirit the French Sailors. In this Letter, he declared his Resolution to obey implicitly the Orders he received; but, at the same time, desired he might not be made answerable for the Event. What Effect this will have, we cannot as yet know; but it is generally believed, that the Violence of the Spanish Court will prevail against his Remonstrances, and that a Battle will ensue.

HOME PORTS.

Plymouth, February 24. Since my last I filed his Majesty's Ships the Monmouth and Sutherland for Spithead.

Pool, February 25. Wind N. N. E. Sailed the William and Thomas, Lander, and the Agnes and Betty, Botley, both for Landon.

Cowes, February 25. Wind N. N. E. The 22d arrived the Mary, Duddington, from South Carolina for this Place.

Portsmouth, February 25. Came into St. Helens Road the Sapphire Man of War, Capt. Saunders, from a Cruise, left from Torbay. Six Days ago he saw 15 Sail of large Ships, but could not tell what they were.

Dover, February 26. Wind W. and blows strong. I have nothing to say at present, but to contradict what I said Yesterday in relation to the Victory. We were misinformed in regard to that, as well as to one of our 60 or 70 Gun Ships having lost her Foremast, Bowsprit, &c. for we have certain Intelligence, that it was a French Man of War of 30 Guns.

Deal, February 26. Wind S. W. Yesterday drove on Shore several Ships, which I could not get an Account of; viz. the Globe, Harrison, for Dub in and Jamaica; the Mary, Smithson, for Carolina, the Ship will be lost, but the People saved; the Carolina Galley, Spillman, the Captain, three Men, and a Boy lost; the Genoa Galley, Sinnott, the Captain, Mate, and six Men lost; the Oxford, Lamotte, the Captain and sixteen Men drown'd. These Three were bound to Gibraltar and Port Mahon, with Victualling Stores. Remain the Fort St. George, Acton, for East-India, having lost all her Masts; the Bansted, Whiting, and the Essex, Hunter, both for Virginia; the Scipio, Tobin, for Nevis; the Mercury, Hargrave, for Philadelphia, has lost all her Masts; the Mermaid, Phillips, for Leghorn; the Providence, Burne, for Havre de Grace; the Levant Tender, Abbott; and the Rochester, Hutchenson, from Oporto.

Several Ships failed to the Eastward on Friday Night. As I am informed, they are in Hopes of getting off some of the Ships I gave Account of Yesterday.

THE HISTORY of POPERY. By several Gentlemen.

Being a full and genuine Account both of the Doctrines and Practices of the Papists, from the primitive Ages of Christianity, gradually carried on to the End of the Council of Trent. This Work takes in all that is material or what was published in the Reigns of King Charles and King James the Second. Wrote by HENRY CARR, Gent. And it is worth Observation, that of all the Writers that have appeared in Defence of Popery, not one of them have ventured to reply to this Book, any other Way than by arraigning and condemning the Author of it; which was done at the King's Bench in the Guildhall of the City of London, by Judge Jeffries. To which are now added, many curious Observations vouch'd by unquestionable Authorities, both of Papist and Protestant Writers. The Whole being dispos'd in a regular, concise, and familiar Manner. Adapted for the Entertainment of the more judicious Part of Mankind; and People of a lower Rank and Capacity may thereby be furnished to oppose the artful Sophistry of Priests and Jesuits, which are here traced thro' the darkest and most intricate Mazes of that Mithery of Iniquity; and the daring Insolence of the Bishops of Rome, in despising Emperors and Kings at their Pleasure. With a brief Account of the Lives of all the Popes, the Celibacy of the Clergy, of their Masses, their Councils, Canons, Decrees, Schisms, Saints, Crosses, Crucifixes, Reliques, Images, Pilgrimages, auricular Confession, Peter-Pence, Indulgences, Traditions, Rule of Faith, Scriptures, Index Expurgatorius, Visible Church, Election of Popes and Cardinals, kissing the Pope's Feet, Pope Joan, Thomas à Becket, Transubstantiation, Purgatory, Curies and Cruelties on Wickliffe, Hus, Sir John Oldcastle, Luther, and many thousands of other faithful Martyrs; together with a true Relation of all the other horrible and detestable Idolatry and Cruelties practis'd by the Church of Rome, attempted and carried on in Great Britain and Ireland, as well as in foreign Countries, are all treated of at large, with Copper-plates.

To which is added,
An Abridgment of the History of the Reformation, and of the Persecution in Queen Mary's Reign, chiefly extracted from Thuanus, Fox, Sleidan, Burnet, Strype, Rapin, and others.

By the Authors of the History of Popery.
